

Online interactive session with Chetan Prabhudesai

On yet another brilliant occasion we Aryaanites got the privilege to interact with the 'Chetan Prabhudesai', who gave us an insight into the philosophical aspect of life. he started by telling us that there were 5 important aspects that defined us. Our financial status that forms the base, our family- our support system, our career, our soul and mind, and our contribution to the society. A perfect balance between them gave the satisfaction that we desired. Money, he said formed the foundation of our lives. Further, he said family was one of the most significant contributors in our success because it was our ultimate support system that propels us forward through our ups and downs and highs and lows. Then he told us about our choice of career that we have to make. He expressed that it was our interest that should be given utmost priority and not the money that we are likely to get by doing a particular job. Because after all we must enjoy our lives and live it to the fullest. Next, he told us about our souls that was indestructible and simply great, adding to this he addressed the fact that the brain and mind can be trained to a level that we can achieve wonders, this could be achieved by practicing whatever, we want to achieve, for 10000 hours a year. He also said that a stable mind is the greatest advantage that only a few individuals have over the others, and only meditation and content could give us stable mind. Further on, he said that our individual contribution to the society was also equally important for overall contentment and that completed our duty, life and added value to our lives. Sir illustrated the above using real life examples. Further he answered all our queries and made an important point that we had to listen more so the all the issues are taken care of and no one is left out, and this itself was the key to successful life. As the session came to a conclusion it was my privilege to propose the Vote of Thanks to his excellency Sir Chetan Prabhudesai.

last but not the least, all this was made possible just because of the seamless efforts put in by our director Sir VPD who continues to bring such top-class personalities to interact with us.
